TRIES TO MURDER

George E. Goodwin Assaults Defenceless Woman With a Heavy Flail

SMALL CHILD CLINGS TO MOTHER

Goodwin Thought to Be Temporarily Insane --- Held Without Bail --- Victim in Critical Condition.

George E. Goodwin, aged 21 years, of York, was held without bail on Wednesday afternoon by trial Justice Hildreth, for assault with intent to murder Mrs. Laura Brieley, on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Brieley is in a critical condition, and may not recover.

Goodwin lives with his parents at Chase Pond and on Tuesday afternoon it is alleged, he went to the home of Mrs. Laura Brieley, living near his home, and not finding her in the house went out into the farm yard. He found Mrs. Brieley with her three-year-old child, feeding the pigs.

Goodwin approached them with the remark to Mrs. Brieley, "Where are the little devils?" She thought that he referred to the pigs and pointed to the pen. Goodwin, without further provocation or warning, grabbed up a four foot flail and attacked the defenceless woman. He rained blow after blow with the heavy stick on her unprotected head and she sank to the ground unconscious.

Goodwin did not attempt to injure the little child, who was almost frightened to death and clung to the unconscious body of her mother, but after seeing that Mrs. Brieley was unconscious and supposedly dead, Goodwin walked away.

The farms in that section are far apart and the little child clung to her mother, sobbing until her pitiful cries seemed to have brought her mother back to life, and she recovered her senses. With the aid of the little child, she succeeded in dragging herself to the house and there was found by some of the neighbors, who happened along.

Dr. Smith of York was called and he found the woman's head covered with scalp wounds, and suffering greatly from loss of blood.

While the physician was attending Mrs. Brieley, Goodwin appeared on the scene and held the lamp for the physician, while he sewed up the horrible cuts. Goodwin appeared to be harmless enough then, and for fear that her husband would come home and learn of the assault and kill Goodwin, he was driven away.

Later in the night Deputy Sheriff Woodward arrived and placed Goodwin under arrest. It is supposed that Goodwin suffered temporary insanity for he had never been known to be vicious and had always been friendly with the victim.

Goodwin was arraigned before Trial Justice Hildreth on Wednesday afternoon at York Beach, and the case was presented for the state by County Attorney Richardson of Kennebunk, and at his request Goodwin was held without bail until Nov. 23, to await the result of Mrs. Brieley's injuries.

Mrs. Brieley was reported on Wednesday evening as being in a critical condition, from the loss of blood and the shock of the assault.

CARR SAYS RICH MEN ONLY CAN BE GOVERNORS

Thinks Campaign Expenses Put Office Beyond Ordinary Reach

Clarence E. Carr of Andover, the defeated democratic candidate for governor Wednesday made public his final statement of his election expenses and regretfully admits that the taxes of a gubernatorial campaign in the Granite state are such as to keep out men who may be of real merit but of limited financial means. His open letter follows: "To the Voters of New Hampshire: "I published Nov. 7 a statement of my expenses incurred down to that date. The expenses for hotel bills therein published should have read, 'hotel bills and carfare.' "Additional hotel bills and carfare, 50 cents. "Additional clerical help, $65.81. "Additional for press agent, expenses and advertising, $200. "Additional for advertising, otherwise than specified as above, $44.92. "Photographs, $20.18. "Part expenses of speakers, $35. "Use of typewriter and transcript of speech, $7.75. "Expenses not heretofore reported, $392.16. "Expense already reported, $1013. "Total of campaign, $2305.16. "I am free to say that I think the above expenses are too much. They are several hundred dollars more than I intended they should be, which I presume is the usual case.

WHAT WE SAY IS SO

My expenses are open to the same criticism made by me on the much larger amount spent by my adversary to wit: That they are liable to preclude men of real merit but of limited means, from entering into the gubernatorial race. I suppose, if expenses were limited by law—as I think they should be, both as to candidates and committees—that some way would be found to evade the law.

"I suppose we shall see the elimination of the expenditure of money for nominations and for election campaigns when public sentiment demands it, though legislative restriction might accomplish something.

"Clarence E. Carr."

WILL INVESTIGATE SIX YEARS RECORD

Solicitor Cuptill Will Go as Far as Law Allows

Attorney Ernest L. Cuptill, the incoming county solicitor, says that if an investigation of any kind is necessary, as a result of Judge Page's accusation of Republican vote buying, he will carry it back six years, which is the time permitted by law.

If the situation is investigated, two methods of procedure are possible. An investigation may be conducted before Judge Thomas H. Simms of the police court, and a written synopsis of the evidence would be submitted by him to the county solicitor, or a special grand jury session may be called.

In the latter event the voters would be deprived of a knowledge of the testimony, as the newspaper men would be excluded.

FINISHED SNOOZE IN STRANGE HOUSE

Bluejacket Pipes Down at 3 a. m. With Queer Bedfellows

Clark Allen, a sailor from one of the ships at the navy yard, got badly mixed on lodging houses or else the land he had was responsible for the funny stunt which he did about 2.45 o'clock this morning.

Allen had been previously put to bed in a room on High street, but he got up, came out and finally landed in the police station.

Allen, finding the front door of the residence of Samuel Vientrib, a Hebrew baker living at the corner of State and Penhallow streets open, he entered and after awhile found his way into the sleeping quarters of the family.

Vientrib had begun the day's work and was busy down stairs, but Allen found his wife and child asleep in their bed.

"Get out of that!" he ordered the astonished woman, "I've paid two dollars for this room!"

Mrs. Vientrib didn't dispute the fact with him, but ran down into the street and found Police Officer Philbrick.

When they returned the sleepy bluejacket had removed his shoes and roofer and was in the land of Nod with an arm around the child's neck and a rag doll and a teddy bear also sharing the cot.

After he had been brought into the land of the living once more and taken to the police station, he could give no account of himself and again this morning when he had had several hours more indulgence in tired nature's sweet restorer, the cobwebs had not fully been cleared away.

He was allowed to give the best explanation he could of his remarkable conduct in police court.

CORN AND OATS, WITH DROUGHT

Important Factors In Lower Prices For Food

SECRETARY WILSON'S VIEW

Says It Is Too Early For Politics to Figure In Reduction—Armour Believes Prices of Meats Are Working Toward a Still Lower Level—Wiley Thinks Reduction a Trust Move and That Public Will Not Benefit

Washington, Nov. 17.—Full bins of corn and oats have had much to do with the fall in meat prices, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The present break in prices, said Wilson, in discussing the report from various cities, "is hardly a normal market development. While it is true that we should expect a downward trend of prices because of the great crop of corn and oats we have had, the present sudden drop in meats is too pronounced to be an effect from that cause altogether."

"I believe the drought in the southwest and the consequent shortage and high prices of hay are responsible for a normal movement for this season of farmers rushing to market with their stock. They see it pays better to sell now than to feed through the winter. They probably are also influenced by anticipation of a lower market. It's too soon after election to connect politics with the decline of prices. The country is full of corn and oats—that's the reason fundamentally for a lowering of prices."

J. O. Armour, head of Armour & Co., said that the whole tendency in the price of livestock was lower. He also declared that the demand would be gradual, and warned the public from expecting too hastily the belief that a drop from the highest to the lowest prices was due.

"The packers' prices to the retailers are based entirely on what we have to pay for the live animals," said Armour. "Generally speaking, prices are lower, and I believe they are working toward a still lower level. The present situation is the result of enormous corn crops and of previous high prices that stimulated everybody to raise livestock. The public is getting the benefit of present conditions, and should get further benefit as the increased supply of livestock reaches the market."

"The recent high price of meats and packing house products cannot be attributed in any way to the packers, or to any combination of persons or firms connected in the packing industry. It has been due to conditions that developed from a scarcity and a high price for corn, which is the basis of the supply of livestock."

"A decline in prices at the Chicago stock yards was followed by a reduction of fresh meats and staples. Consumption there predicted lower prices still on everything except eggs, which they say are high and going higher."

The decline since the first of October is from 50 to 75 cents on cattle in the bulk, and the market in general is 50 cents lower than it was a week ago. Hogs have dropped from $9.50 a hundred, Oct. 18, to $7.82 1/2.

Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, refuses to grow cheerful over the broadcast announcement of a general drop in the prices of foodstuffs, notably meats.

He said: "The interests which manipulated the prices upward temporarily have released their hold on our throats for the purpose of getting a fresh grip. The so-called reduction in meats is fictitious. Its manipulation was deliberate, just as the increase in prices was unjust, unreasonable and uncalled for conditions prevailing throughout the country. The prices were fictitious at the top note because they were forced there arbitrarily by the interests."

"Developments will show that the interests are after someone. It may be some independent movement they hope to drive from cover."

GASTON BOOM GROWS

Now Said That Successor to Lodge May Not Be Chosen This Year

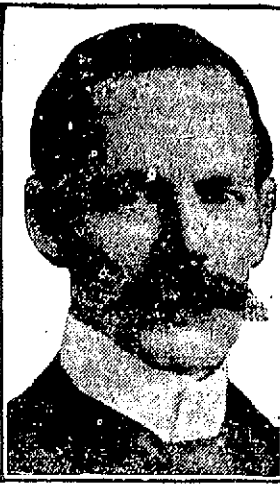

Boston, Nov. 17.—The boom of William A. Gaston for United States senator look on big proportions yesterday when it was announced that practically every prominent leader in the state had expressed himself as favorable to the candidacy of Gaston. The entrance of Gaston into the senatorship fight has led to the doubt if any senator at all can be chosen by the legislature this year. An analysis does not give either to Gaston or to Lodge at this time a majority of the votes of a convention of both branches of the legislature.

RICHARD C. MACLAURIN

Says Many Children's Careers Are Misfits

MISFITS IN CAREERS

Dr. MacLaurin Thinks Many Are Due to Ambitions of Parents

Boston, Nov. 17.—Parents alone are not competent to select careers for their children, in the opinion of Dr. MacLaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was the principal speaker at the closing session of the First National Vocational Guidance conference held here last night.

Dr. MacLaurin said that parents should naturally have a part in selecting careers for their children, but that they were too close and too often guided by their personal ambitions to be the sole arbiters. He thought that one outside influence necessary should come from a teacher.

Still another should come from public spirited business men who were more competent than anyone else to tell young women and men of actual conditions and requirements that go to make success. He said that the human waste that takes place daily owing to mistakes in choosing careers is the greatest waste of all.

WOMAN CONVICTED OF KILLING HUSBAND

Verdict of Manslaughter Returned Against Mrs. Averill

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Josephine Averill, who for the past week has been on trial charged with the murder of her husband, was late yesterday afternoon found guilty of manslaughter. The jury was out four and a half hours.

When Mrs. Averill heard the verdict she collapsed. She will be sentenced later in the week. The penalty is imprisonment from one to twenty years.

Frank Averill was shot on the night of Oct. 20 at his own home. He was about to go to bed. He and his wife were alone at the time. Averill appeared at a neighbor's house about 9:30, bleeding from a gunshot wound. He died a few days later. Mrs. Averill said he had been showing her how to use the gun when it exploded.

ABSORBS "NARROW GAUGE"

New Haven Road Seeks Legislative Sanction to Ownership

Boston, Nov. 17.—President Mellen of the New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads has filed a petition asking the legislature for authority to purchase the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad.

This action of Mellen is taken in banking circles as a public admission of the ownership of the "Narrow Gauge" by the New Haven. While it may be news to the general public that the New Haven owns the "Narrow Gauge," this ownership has been known in railroad circles for months. It is pointed out as "not good business." So the New Haven is now seeking legislative sanction to an ownership and consolidation that already exists.

BANK TREASURER KILLED

His Brother Seriously Injured in an Automobile Accident

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 17.—George N. Root, treasurer of the Lenox Savings bank, was instantly killed, and his brother, Willis B. Root, was seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on an icy road and was overturned.

The two brothers and Miss Florence Mahanna, who was soon to have been married to George N. Root, went to Pittsfield by automobile, where they attended the theatre. They were on their return to Lenox when the accident happened.

Plot Feared Against Minto

Calcutta, Nov. 17.—Three young Bengalis were arrested at a farewell function organized by the Indian community here in honor of the Earl of Minto, the retiring viceroy, and his wife. Two of the prisoners were pressing close to the earl when they were seized.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

109th Annual Event Brought to a Close Wednesday

The sessions of the 109th annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in the diocese of New Hampshire were brought to a close late Wednesday afternoon in Concord. One of the most interesting subjects of the day was a discussion of the visit of two Episcopal clergymen recently in the interest of saloon liquor from New Jersey to this state re-cess.

Bishop Niles and Conductor Bishop Parker of this diocese published a letter during the campaign, stating that these men did not represent the sentiment of the denomination. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions on the subject and they were presented today and passed as follows:

"Whereas, previous to the recent state election certain persons from without the diocese made statements in various places as to the position of the Episcopal church on the licensing of the sale of liquor;

"Resolved, That this convention denies all right on the part of these persons to speak for the Episcopal church in New Hampshire;

"Resolved, That while the church leaves the discussion of all matters of public policy to the conscience and judgment of her people in their individual capacity, we desire to put on record our abhorrence of the manifold evils of intemperance and our hearty sympathy with all influences which tend to diminish these evils;

"Resolved, That the convention express its thanks to the bishop and conductor of this diocese for their recent public declaration on this subject."

The annual address of Bishop Niles was given this morning and was a review of the growth of the denomination during the forty years of his bishopric. Conductor Bishop Parker also gave review of the field work, and the reports of other general officers showed the diocese to be in the usual good standing financially, as to number of communicants and general church interest.

JACK JOHNSON GOING HOME

Afraid He Has Nervous Prostration, He Says in Lowell

Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, has quit, temporarily, at least. He has met his match and he is afraid. He is going home to his mammy in Chicago to try and recover from the punch which has shaken his memory and left him whipped for the time being.

He made the announcement in Lowell Wednesday night after the performance of the burlesque company in which he is being featured in a boxing sketch. He thinks it is nervous prostration and so serious that he has asked his wife to hide his revolver so that he can't shoot himself. He says he will quit the show business after the Bangor date, Saturday night, and will take the first train for Chicago.

Johnson seemed broken in spirit when he talked to reporters after the show. He cannot understand what the matter with him, but he realizes that it is something very serious, for he cannot keep his mind on anything. He had "cut out" his now famous monologue and sticks strictly to sparring, going home directly after the show each night.

The "punch" came last Saturday night in Lawrence, he says. It was after the show and he was at the hotel with his wife when suddenly everything went blank. He asked Mrs. Johnson to hide his revolver when he had recovered his bearings for fear that the next time he got "groggy" he would do harm to himself.

After resting Sunday he continued his engagements, but decided he would have to be especially careful and so far he has worked this week without any serious breakdown. However, he felt that he ought to let it be known that he is done.

WENT INSANE ON THE STREET

WILLIAM MILLREE HAS SUDDEN ATTACK ON CONGRESS STREET AND CREATED CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT.

William Millree went suddenly insane while walking along Congress street with his wife, on Wednesday afternoon, and created considerable excitement. Millree first started off on a religious strain and declared that he was the avenger. From that he branched to a defence of Theodore Roosevelt, and despite the efforts of his wife became more violent, attracting a large crowd.

Deputy Marshal Hurley with Officer Seymour, heard the disturbance from the police station and after considerable trouble took Millree to the station. He strongly resisted being taken off the street, but once inside of the cell room became very quiet and while apparently still wandering was harmless.

It is said that he suffered an attack like this some months ago, but is a sober and industrious man when in his right mind.

THEATRICAL TOPICS

"The Family"

What some of the Boston papers say about "The Family," which will be seen here Nov. 29:

"The attempt as often as the accomplishment praises 'The Family' at the Globe, and the acting of the little company that suffices for the play enhances both. The author assembles and assembles a little group of ordinary personages; sets them at the beginning in the daily routine of their lives; makes them speak and do all the things according to that routine and their own natures. The author, Robert H. Davis, has his perceptions of homely characters; he has fine, true instinct, for simple emotions.—Transcript.

A play appealing to plain, homespun people whose patronage spells a great popular success. Full of local color of the traditional New England sort.—Advertiser.

"The Family" makes its bid successfully as a play for plain people. In the appraisal of the acting every member deserves high words of commendation.—Record.

"The Family" should attain popularity. Its theme is so natural, such a vivid picture of life and above all so well acted, that it will commend itself to all who enjoy dramatic art. Robert H. Davis, the author, has given some character drawings which are admirable.

Seldom has Boston witnessed a more evenly balanced company, and the acting of John Wesley and the other members of the cast was a veritable treat.—Post.

"Graustark"

This tale of "A Love Behind a Throne," dramatized by Grace Hayward and adapted by George D. Baker, from the novel of George Barr McCutcheon, as it appears in play form, is delightfully fascinating and makes "Graustark" a charming country with equally interesting people. Ruled by a Princess of unusual personality, queenly, yet a woman; naive; indifferent to Lorry, yet warm, then cold as he grows too enthusiastic; in fact, everything that puzzles him and nothing half so much as that such a person should be labelled "Guggenlocker." He, therefore, finds a friend eager for adventure, and they set out to find her. Just how successful he is and how happy his friend becomes in also finding a mate in this castle of romance, is nicely unfolded by Mr. Baker.

Hardly anyone has made an ideal

FOR THE WOMAN THAT'S FAT

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is 1-2 ounce Marmola (get it in the original 1-2 ounce package), 1-2 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatized and 3 1-2 ounces Peppermint Water. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost, and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat parent's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to make it speedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

cleanses, preserves and beautifies the teeth and imparts purity and fragrance to the breath. Mothers should teach the little ones its daily use.

American half so attractive as has Mr. McCutcheon. The dramatized version, the present offering covers many adventures, quickly and effectively, as the play depicts. A few liberties have been taken with some of the characters in the novel, they having been eliminated to give strength to those in the play.

Scenically, "Graustark," is the most ambitious offering of a romantic nature now on tour. Especially telling is the first act, showing the hotel Regenzitz at Edelweiss, Graustark, in which the electrical effects are unusually well arranged, while the throne room and bed chamber of the Princess are in keeping with the costume and general atmosphere of the play.

"Graustark" will be seen at Music Hall Thanksgiving afternoon and evening.

Kepler's Three Laws.

The three laws of planetary motion discovered by Kepler, upon which modern astronomy is based, are:

First.—Each planet revolves in an ellipse, with the sun at one end of the foci.

Second.—Each planet moves in such a way that the line drawn between the center of the sun and the center of the planet passes over equal areas in equal periods of time.

Third.—The square of the time of a planet's revolution around the sun is proportional to the cube of its mean distance from the sun.

CURB THE TEMPER.

The peculiarity of ill temper is that it is the vice of the virtuous. It is often the one blot on an otherwise noble character. You know men and women who are all but perfect but for an easily ruffled, quick tempered or "touchy" disposition. This compatibility of ill temper with high moral character is one of the strangest and saddest problems of ethics.

WHERE SILENCE WOULD BE GOLDEN

Silence is not always golden, in spite of the old adage, but in the case of William B. Lawrence of Medford, a large stockholder in and for many years a director of the Boston and Maine railroad, his subsidence would be for the benefit of all concerned.

When Mr. Lawrence, who also opposed the merger with the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, tells the Massachusetts railroad commissioners that only two tracks are necessary to accommodate the present traffic through Lynn and vicinity on the Boston and Maine, he shows his thorough lack of knowledge in regard to that matter.

On the highest and farthest-extended authority obtainable, the four trackings of the above mentioned section of the road is advocated. It is very evident, from the present amount of traffic, that future needs of the Lynn to Boston section as well as that extending to this city, can be satisfied by no less than that number.

Mr. Lawrence's best course would be to cease his pulling in the wrong direction, as it were, and act in conjunction with those who are out for the improvement and upbuilding of the system.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

There was doubtless surprise and disappointment on the part of the Democrats that Governor-elect Bass neither held up his hands in pious horror at the accusation of Republican vote buying, nor launched into a volley of denial, denunciation and verbal chastisement of the accusers. Instead he has quietly gone to work to investigate the charges in a manner which can but be commended by both parties.

Boston restaurant keepers are lowering their prices because of the drop in meat. This should allow the patron of Childs to satisfy his hunger at Cook's, the habitue of Cook's to dine at Cafe Maurice, and the frequenter of Cafe Maurice to slip his extra change to the waiter.

The Boston police department has declared war on sidewalk spitters, and the progress of the crusade will be watched with interest. Here it might be adopted to good advantage, but a better idea would be to lessen the number of young unscrupulous girls which are nightly seen on Congress and other of the city's streets.

It takes few successful aeroplanes flights to mount an aviator's name on a pedestal of undying honor. Dozens of the bird men who have leaped into world wide prominence within the past year have built their reputations on single aerial voyages. The latest example of one of these motoretic ascensions into the world of fame is Eugene B. Ely, who flew from the cruiser Birmingham to the shore of Hampton Roads.

The Conard line is contemplating a 1000 foot liner, and the Hamburg-American line another 930 feet long. Such leviathans would be obliged to load their passengers from offshore in breeches buoys in lieu of docking unless they satisfied themselves with using Portsmouth as a terminal. No other harbor would have waters to accommodate these monsters.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The Gentleman in Politics
In his campaign in New Jersey, Woodrow Wilson was a unique figure. Skipping all intermediate stages of preparation, he was taken from the academic cloister to the political arena and the country wondered how he would adjust himself to the new and strange conditions. But at once he appeared to be perfectly at home in them. He has been the gentleman as well as the scholar in politics. He has recognized the high qualities of his opponent and the contest has been free from personalities on either side. He has brought wide learning and deep thinking into the discussion of public questions, and his contribution to that service has been found interesting even by those who may not have agreed with all his conclusions. Perhaps in no other state has personality contributed so much, to success.—Boston Transcript.

Another Woman Suffrage State
Washington now takes rank as the fifth state to grant the full suffrage to women on equal terms with men. The constitutional amendment was carried in every county in the state. The West has always been more hospitable to equal suffrage than the East. Following the example of Wyoming in 1893, Colorado enfranchised women in 1893, and Utah and Idaho in 1896. The next step follows after a lapse of fourteen years.

On the other hand, in Oregon a constitutional amendment permitting women's vote has been rejected for the second time, and Oklahoma and South Dakota have also rendered an adverse verdict. The women suffragists, however, are accustomed to defeat. One victory will cause more rejoicing among them than a score of defeats can produce dismay.—New York World.

Electrification

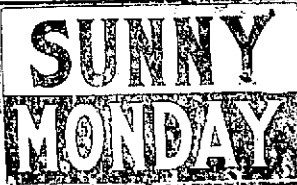

The reflexes of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, and the Albany railroads to the resolves of the legislatures as to the general electrification of the steam lines centering in Boston show that the companies are not willing to make the needed changes without the express stipulation that the public shall be charged for the same in addition to regular rates of fares. The fact that broken promises are involved in this refusal does not deter the roads from standing squarely in opposition to the sentiment of the people.

Of course the public pays eventually for every railroad improvement and in the end it would pay for electrification. It would also provide a large part of the money necessary for the work by the purchase of new bonds or stock. But it would be quite likely to object to paying by the swifter and more heavily felt method of terminal charges or any other special tax. It would also argue that electrification and consequent increase of trains would largely increase the railroads' revenues.

Is it wise for the steam railroad to stand in the way of highly desirable improvements at this particular time, when high powered and direct electric lines are knocking for admission to the centre of Boston?—Boston Post.

A TIMELY TOPIC

—BY—

THOMAS A. THACHER,
In North American Review.

Our Future Trade Problem

It should be recognized that the natural strength of the United States as an exporter of cereals is very different from her position as an exporter of factory products. It is not hard for a nation which produces a large part of the grain consumed by cereal importing countries to keep its trade balance favorable. All nations must eat, and short harvest in the producing country, if its crop is sufficient proportion to the world's production, will be compensated for by a rise in prices. In the past the United States has had an invincible superiority in grain production because of the vast amount of land suitable for cultivation. No amount of agricultural knowledge, cheap labor or reasonable transportation charges can make one nation possessing very limited areas of grain country become a successful competitor with another nation endowed with great tracts of fertile cereal-growing soil, although handicapped by high wages, costly freight rates and a low degree of knowledge as to scientific farming. In developing manufactured exports America competes with the advanced nations of Europe upon what is practically an even basis. Commercial credit widespread knowledge as to foreign markets, cheap transportation, low wages, etc., will be the determining factors in this struggle for trade. Whatever the great areas of fertile, well watered land one nation may possess they will count for very little.

The problem of the United States in the future is to keep the prices of manufactured articles down to an export basis. As in the case with wheat, the manufactures must be kept at a price where they will be taken for foreign markets. Once above this export point American shipments will be little influenced. No matter how high the prices are pushed no goods will go.

INNOCENT MAN CLEARED

Elton McDonald, a much esteemed young man, who has been employed as chauffeur at the Granite State garage in this city for the past month or more, was arrested a week ago for a Portsmouth officer, who came false arrest was a great shock to Rufus Wood of that city, charging him with stealing a furnished overcoat valued at $35. Mr. McDonald denied all knowledge of the matter when arrested. He was taken to Portsmouth to face the charge and it developed in court that he was entirely innocent. Mr. McDonald had never been arrested before, and the false arrest was a great shock to him and to his many friends here who refused to believe that he was implicated in any way. Mr. McDonald belongs in a highly respectable family, his parents living in New York state. He was advised to prosecute Wood for having him falsely arrested, but rather than go to the expense of prosecuting he accepted a small sum of money from Wood, an amount which largely reimbursed him for the loss of time caused by being arrested and taken away from his job here. A statement by both McDonald and Wood concerning the settlement effected was published in yesterday's Democrat.—Dover Democrat.

DOVER AUTOISTS ORGANIZE CLUB

Branch of National Association
Is Formed

A well attended meeting of Dover automobilists, comprising some of the most prominent owners of motors met at the Stratford bank parlors last evening and formed an organization to be known as the Dover automobile club. The object is to affiliate with the state and national automobile associations and work in the interest of good roads and fair laws.

It is stated that a New Hampshire association is yet to be formed and that it will be done as soon as a sufficient number of local clubs have been started. There are now three or four such clubs in the state. The organizer of the Dover club is J. Porteus of Boston, organizer for the American automobile association.

The club adopted the general form of constitution of the national association and appointed a committee to revise it to conform to the local requirements and report Nov. 21. These officers were elected:

Frank B. Williams, president; William W. Finley, vice president; Dr. Louis W. Flanders, secretary treasurer; Dudley L. Fisher Col. Charles C. Goss, George H. Williams, William H. Roberts directors; Hon. Arthur G. Whittemore, delegate to the state association, Harry P. Henderson, delegate to the national association.

A meeting to further discuss the organization of such a club in this city will be held in the Board of Trade rooms Friday evening.

EXETER

Exeter, Nov. 17.

Carlos Batchelder, an aged resident of Elm street, died at his home there Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Batchelder had been a resident here for many years, and at one time followed the vocation of a cobbler. During the late years of his life he had been somewhat of a cripple. He was twice married.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Benjamin Brown of Union street.

Rev. L. L. Caithier of Portsmouth conducted a revival meeting at the Methodist church Wednesday evening.

Repairs are being made on the Unitarian church, they being done on the exterior, mainly to the side nearest to Maple street.

The body of Mrs. Carrie P. Thompson, who died at the state hospital at Concord, was Tuesday evening brought to Hampton Falls for burial. She was the wife of William Thompson of that town, and had been at the hospital for the past two years. Her age was 32 years, and she was born in Exeter, her family name being Pease. Besides the husband two brothers survive her. She was a graduate from the Robinson seminary of this town.

An analysis of the water from the artesian well at the Exeter Machine works has lately been completed at the state board of health laboratory at Concord and reports of its being of the purest in this section have come back from there. This water is used by many here, and especially at the public buildings. It is on tap

IT'S ALWAYS BAD

The Best of Backs Are Bad When They Ache, and Portsmouth People Know It

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes. Just as bad in the morning. Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it?

Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't, some Portsmouth people do.

Read a case of it: Mrs. Charles O. Hill, 153 Vaughan Portsmouth, N. H., says: "A short time ago I was suddenly attacked by severe pains in my back. I could hardly stand and it was difficult for me to get up or down stairs. I at last saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as the best remedy to use in such cases, and as my husband had previously taken them with good results, I decided to give them a trial. I procured a box at Philbrick's Drug Store and the result of their use was a complete cure. I have had no occasion to use a kidney remedy since that time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

at the county building, the court house and the Squamset house. An enterprising student at the Phillips academy is Bernard Forman of Milwaukee, Wis., who this year, as last, is to manage and sell tickets for the return trip to the west for the students who go that way on the Christmas vacation. Forman runs a special train to Chicago and is already taking orders for passage. Last year the coaches were attached to one of the regular trains, and this will probably be the method this year. There were many of the boys bound for the west on the holiday vacation who went to their homes on his train.

WORST COLD IS EASILY BROKEN

A Few Doses end most Severe
Grippe Misery

There is not one grain of quinine in Pape's Cold Compound, which when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

TO OUTCLASS SINGER BUILDING

But New Store Will Not Be as High as Metropolitan Tower

F. W. Woolworth, the millionaire proprietor of a five and ten cent store in this and many other cities, will soon enjoy an unusual distinction, for with the completion of a building to be erected by him at the southwest corner of Broadway and Park Place in New York city the famous Singer building will no longer be the second tallest building in the world.

According to plans by Architect Cass Gilbert which have been accepted by Mr. Woolworth, this new building will be thirteen feet higher than the Singer building. It will measure from the street level up to the cupola 625 feet and will cost $5,000,000. It will be completed a year from next January.

The high wind got busy this afternoon with a lead on a wagon coming out of Porter street into Pleasant. When it got through the street was littered with the remains of several cases of empty beer bottles.

In the case of Rowe vs. Smith, an action for damage, the jury went out at five o'clock and remained out until late in the evening, when a sealed verdict was returned.

This morning the jury in the case of Rowe versus Smith brought in a verdict for the defendant.

Today the case of Adanti versus Woods was in order. Dominic Adanti of New Haven, Conn., claimed that while at work in that city for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, he was run down by an automobile driven by Charles E. Woods of this city, rendered unconscious and badly injured. He sued for 2,000.

The preceding cases of Weaver against Joslin and Joslin against Weaver are continued to the end of the jury list; Amazeen against the town of New Castle will be heard by the court; French, executrix, against Wadleigh and another, is marked, "issues to the court."

She was then at sea, en route from Culebra, canal zone, to this port. According to the official published list of movements of navy vessels, the Washington arrived at Norfolk yesterday.

FLEET IN ENGLAND

GIVEN WARM RECEPTION AND PLANS MADE FOR ELABORATE ENTERTAINMENT.

Portland, Eng., Nov. 16—The first division of the American battleship fleet, which includes Rear Admiral Schroeder's flagship, the Connecticut, arrived this morning.

While coming from Tor Bay, the American warships passed the second division of the British home fleet, which was passing out. Salutes were exchanged. The visiting vessels also made the customary salutes as they entered Portland harbor.

Vice Admiral Sir William Henry May, commander of the home fleet, entertains the American admiral and captains on his flagship, the Dreadnought, tonight. The mayor and the corporation will give a banquet to the American officers, while a fancy ball and other entertainments for the American and British bluejackets has been arranged.

Immediately after the American battleships had been moored in the berths usually occupied by the 2d division of the home fleet, which left this morning for the express purpose of making room for the visitors in the overcrowded harbor, Vice Admiral May put off in a barge to visit Rear Admiral Schroeder. He was received at the gateway of the Connecticut by the American admiral, and the two retired to the latter's quarters. Later, Rear Admiral Schroeder returned the visit aboard the Dreadnought.

The men of the visiting fleet will be given all the privileges of the naval canteen at Portland and to the sailors' home in Weymouth harbor. This is a courtesy never before granted to the men of foreign ships. The naval recreations grounds have been placed at the disposal of the Americans, and rowing and sailing matches between crews of American and British seamen have been planned.

is exciting the liveliest interest in England. It is expected that London will be filled with American sailors during the next few weeks, and arrangements have been made to entertain the thousands of bluejackets, who will come here from Portland and Gravesend.

Commander Edward Simpson, American naval attaché at London, has received offers of hospitality from British seamen's and soldiers' clubs and the proprietors of music halls and theatres.

Rear Admiral Schroeder, commander-in-chief of the American Atlantic fleet, is not expected to visit London, but the Pilgrims' society will give a luncheon to the officers of Rear Admiral Murdoch's division, the third, on Friday. The third division is due at Gravesend today.

GRAVESEND IS DECORATED

Gravesend, Eng., Nov. 16—The battleships Minnesota, flagship of Rear Admiral Murdoch, the Idaho, Mississippi and Vermont, comprising the third division of the American Atlantic fleet, arrived here today.

Mayor Davis boarded the flagship and cordially welcomed Admiral Murdoch, his officers and men, on behalf of the borough. Gravesend is gayly decorated, in honor of the visitors.

GRAFFORT CLUB LECTURE

Mrs. John Colby Abbott entertained a large and appreciative audience at Association hall on Wednesday afternoon with a talk on the "Fables and Furbelows of the Past." "The Lady of Paper," which she used for illustration, was a reproduction of the wonderful La Grande Pandore of the Court of Louis 14th. It may seem a miracle that the radiant pomp of a century could be depicted on a few sheets of paper, but Mrs. Abbott performed the miracle with delightful ease. We saw the ladies of Versailles stepping daintily off the stage, smiling for a moment, and then gracefully folding themselves up and going back to oblivion in a gaping portfolio. Their corsets grew longer and their paniers grew wider and their hair lofter before our eyes. With delicate little pats and pinches, Mrs. Abbott dressed and undressed her dolls, leading them from folly to folly, and fantasy to fantasy, putting a fresh fan in her hand and fresh flowers in her breast, and new jewels around her neck, and telling the audience of the whimsical origin of every fable and furbelow. The lecture was given an added interest by the introduction of anecdotes and original bits of poetry.

Councilman White is on the right track when he states that he will vote to exempt any new industry that means to do business here. He believes that it is the only way to make the city grow.

FOR SOMEBODY ELSE

I met her near the millner's,
Fair Nancy in the bright spring
weather;
I changed my way to go with hers
And we passed in together.

As down between the rows went she
I topped after lovely Nancy,
And saw a hat contriving me
That greatly took my fancy.

"Look there!" I said, "You'll vainly seek
In all the shop creation rarer!
I never saw a thing so chic—
Were Somebody the wearer."

"Those long white plumes, those roses' pale
Soft bloom—like Somebody's complexion!—
It only needs a bridal veil
To make it just perfection!"

She turned her face in quick reply.
A teasing, twinkling smile upon it.
"You think 'twould do?—I came to buy
Dear Grandmamma a bonnet!"

ENTER THE NAVY, SAYS EVANS

Splendid Preparation for Life, Declares the Admiral.

"Fighting Bob" Evans' advice to young men is to enter the navy. The famous sea fighter has just returned from New York to his home in Massachusetts.

"I would advise any young man who was trying to decide on a career to enter the navy," said Admiral Evans. "He will never regret the experience it gives him. The navy turns out young men who entered the training school unexperienced and of little value to themselves, or to any one else, skilled mechanics, steam fitters, blacksmiths, carpenters, wire less operators, telegraph operators. When they graduate they have had an expert training for industrial life and are fitted to take positions in large industries.

"But," continued Admiral Evans, "a man who received his education from Uncle Sam should be willing to serve his country after he has received his education. He should remain in the navy, unless there is some very pressing reason for him to leave."

Admiral Evans related an incident in his own life, showing that he might have become an active member of the Steel trust had he desired. He said that an offer was made to him while he was steel expert in 1888 for the navy by one of the steel magnates to enter the steel business. "I turned the offer over in my mind that day," said Admiral Evans. "The government had given me my education with the idea that I should work for the government, and I felt it was my duty to remain in the navy. So I refused the offer. I have never been sorry, even when I have heard of other men who entered the business much later and have become wealthy. I place a greater value on the friends I have made around the world during my service in the navy than I do on the millions made in steel."

There was excitement aplenty on Congress street Wednesday afternoon. With the police station down on Chapel street it would have been a hard drag to get an insane man under cover, as compared with the present station.

TAFT GETTING INFORMATION

VISITS CLUBBING CUT AND HEARS THE COMPLAINTS OF THE WORKMEN.

Panama, Nov. 16—President Taft's visit is bearing fruit in the matter of first hand information secured, which will help him to deal with the problems involved in the construction, maintenance and control of the Panama canal.

Officials on the ground are urging the president to recommend to congress a single headed government for the Canal Zone, and full and permanent government control of the waterway and the supply depots.

President Taft is gratified over the results of his three days' inspection. Today he went deep down in the Clubbra cut, giving especial attention to this, the most difficult part of the construction.

The President was surprised to learn that the Zone was not included in the operations of the postal bank law and that some of the workmen believed that Wall street influence had robbed them of the benefit of this legislation. As a result of the representations made to him it is probable that Mr. Taft, in his special message to congress, will recommend that provisions be made for the establishment of postal banks in the Zone to care for enormous deposits of salaries and wages.

During the day the President heard delegations of mechanics and laborers, who are asking increased wages, based on increases in the United States. Conditions here however differ from those in the United States, as the government commissary has been successful in preventing the increased cost of living that has been general elsewhere. It is doubtful that larger wages will be paid in the Zone.

Tonight President Taft will leave United States territory to enter Panama City, where he will be the guest of Pres. Arsenienua at a banquet. He will also visit American Minister Dawson, who recently returned from a special mission to Nicaragua.

A MYSTERY CLEARED UP

Scientific Expedition Massacred by Cannibals

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 16—A mystery of 14 years concerning the fate of the Austrian scientific expedition from the ship Albatross is cleared up by the finding of the remains of the expedition in the Solomon Islands.

The discovery was made by Dr. Norcott, Deck of the South Sea Evangelical mission. News of the discovery of the remains of the party in the Albatross was received here by the steamship Zealandia, from Australia. The expedition from the Albatross was headed by Baron Von Norbeck and included Lieut. Budick, midshipman De Beaufort and nine sailors. Dr. Beck found evidences of a massacre on Tatuve Island and from the natives learned the details of the slaughter.

The Austrians, according to the natives, were surprised by the blacks. Baron von Norbeck was killed by a savage who crept up behind him. The sailors fought off the blacks after several were wounded, and made camp where the baron died.

In the night the camp was again attacked and only three of the men escaped. They made their way to the coast without learning the fate of their fellows, who remained in captivity. Remnants of the remains, cast aside after the cannibal feast, led Dr. Beck to believe that the captives fell victims to the tortures of the savages.

RELIEVE RETIRED OFFICERS

Eighty-Five Who Have Been on Active Duty Placed on Reduced Salary List by Meyer.

Retired navy officers who have been engaged in active duty on full pay are being relieved gradually by younger officers, Secretary Meyer taking this step in line with his announced policy of economizing and increased efficiency in the Navy department.

Since Secretary Meyer became head of the navy department 85 retired officers out of a total of 120 who were doing active duty have been placed on the reduced salary list and by the first of next year it is expected there will be only 35 of them remaining on full salary.

WICKED KNIFE, BAD ITALIAN

ARRESTED ON STATE STREET, WHERE HE WAS GOING TO MIX IT UP WITH SAILORS.

Two Italians and three sailors got into a mixup on lower State street, late Wednesday evening, and Officer Philbrick arrived just in time to prevent a possible murder. One of the Italians had a wicked-looking knife in his hand, all opened, and he was, the sailors claim, in the act of attacking them with it.

Both Italians were placed under arrest, the Master at Arms of the U. S. S. DuBoque assisting the officer. At the station the fellow with the knife was booked as Fred Distoro, and they were unable to make out the name of his companion.

It seems that the two Italians had some trouble with some sailors and later ran into three sailors on State street, and thinking they were the same, started an argument in which the knife was drawn. The knife was a wicked-looking weapon, with a very sharp point, and a blade over three inches long.

Grew a Full Growth of Hair on a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

MELLEN COVETS
NARROW GAUGEPetitions for Right to Take Over
Boston, Revere and Lynn R. R. and for Tunnel Under Harbor.

At two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the officials of the Boston and Maine and the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads gave out to the newspapers an official statement to the effect that they desire legislation and are to petition for it, to enable them to secure the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad, to widen and standardize its gauge, to tunnel under the harbor and with electric power to operate the road and bring its passengers into the South station direct.

It is also proposed, the railroad officials say, to extend the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn line to Beverly, so as to thus accommodate the people there and give them a short and quick run into the South station. It was also stated that there is a probability that the Gloucester branch will be electrified, and the passengers on that line brought to the South station by means of the double track tunnel under the harbor which the Mellen interests wish to build.

Make It Up to Date.

It is proposed to make the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad one of the most up to date electrical lines in the country, with steel cars of the very latest type, electrically lighted as well as operated, with the most approved type of block signal system known to railroad operators. The roadbed will all be rebalanced with rock, and the proposed tunnel will be one of the best of its kind to be found anywhere.

In the petition to the legislature nothing is said about the electrification of the Gloucester branch, but the railroad officials this afternoon said that such an electrification of that line is a strong probability, as it can readily be done, and the Gloucester people thus directly connected with the South station. Such an electrification of the Gloucester branch would also greatly accommodate the through travel to the North shore from the South station.

The following is an official copy of the petition of the two railroads to the legislature.

The Petition.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16, 1910.

To the honorable the Senate and house of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in General Court assembled.

The Boston and Maine railroad, and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, railroads corporations duly organized under the laws of this commonwealth, respectfully petition for legislation that shall authorize said railroads, or either of them, to acquire and hold the property, rights and franchises of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad company, or any part, or the whole of the capital stock and indebtedness of that company, upon such terms as may be approved by the board of railroad commissioners; that shall further authorize the widening of the gauge of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad and its extension from the north to connect with existing lines of the Boston and Maine railroad, and upon the south to connect by suitable tunnel under tide water and lands both public and private, with existing railroads entering the South terminal in the city of Boston; that shall further authorize the equipment and operation of said tunnel and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad and its extension by electricity, and in connection therewith the acquisition of properties and the buildings of the necessary and suitable tracks, tunnels and structures; and that shall further authorize the issue of stock and bonds of the said petitioners or either of them, to the amount which the board of railroad commissioners shall find requisite for the purpose of carrying into effect the authority granted.

Your petitioners further pray for such other legislation as may be deemed to be appropriate to effect the proposed improvements in the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad and to accomplish the purposes hereinbefore set forth.

By C. S. Jensen, President.
Boston and Maine Railroad,
By C. S. Mellen, President.

MIDDLE TO HEAD MARINE CORPS

He Will Succeed General Elliott When Latter Retires on Dec. 30.

When Major General George E. Elliott, commanding the United States Marine Corps, retires by operation of the age limit on Dec. 30 he will be succeeded by Colonel William P. Middle, who has been on an extended leave of absence, and is now in Washington. Colonel Middle recently was in command of the marine barracks in New York city. He is now the ranking officer of the eight colonels of the corps. General Elliott was born in Alabama, appointed from New York, and entered the service Oct. 12, 1870. His commission as major general commanding the corps dates from May 13, 1908. He has had fourteen years sea service. Colonel Middle is a native of Pennsylvania, and was appointed from that state June 19, 1875. He reached the grade of colonel Feb. 28, 1906, and has had seventeen years' sea service. The approaching retirement of General Elliott serves to recall the feud among the officers at the corps headquarters here, which culminated on July 15, last, when the navy department sent letters censuring to a number of high officers of the corps, including General Elliott. Prior to the censure a court of inquiry held secret sessions for six months investigating the differences among the officers, which on several occasions almost reached the point of open rupture.

BOARD OF TRADE AND MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE HAVE A MEETING WITH CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS.

A meeting of the Board of Trade and Merchants' Exchange was held on Wednesday evening at their quarters in the Exchange block.

There was a large number of the members present and about fifteen new members were elected.

Mr. Mann, a representative of the American Agricultural and Chemical company was a guest, and he gave an interesting talk on the making of fertilizer and also of the plans of the company in this city.

Several matters were under discussion, that of more houses for the people, that the new industries were bringing into the city, being timely.

STATE COLLEGE

In the last game of the season, two field goals enabled Rhode Island State to defeat N. H. at Kingston, Saturday, by the score of 6 to 0. Both goals were made in the first half. In the second half, N. H. lost the ball on downs within a foot of Rhode Island's goal line, after carrying it almost the length of the field on end runs and forward passes. The play was entirely in Rhode Island's territory.

Considerable interest has already been aroused in basketball for the coming season. While the coach has not yet been chosen, it is definitely understood in college that he will be Ray B. Thomas, the football coach of the past season. Coach Thomas played basketball at Brown, has been with fast professional teams and has coached many winning teams. Practice will probably begin soon after the students return from their Thanksgiving recess.

College will close at 11.50 a. m., Wednesday, preceding Thanksgiving and will open the following Tuesday at 8 a. m. "Cuts" two days before and after this period will count double.

At the first New England Corn show, held in Worcester last week, the N. H. corn judging team consisting of F. C. Mercier, 2 year '11; G. F. Roberts '11, and E. R. Frizzell, 2 year '11, won first honors and a beautiful silver cup as a trophy. The other competing college teams were Conn. State, Univ. of Maine, and Mass. F. C. Mercer of N. H. had the highest individual score, while one of his team mates, G. F. Roberts, was a close second. E. R. Frizzell, the fourth, was but one point behind the third man. The first three men were given medals.

Prof. F. W. Taylor delivered an address on "Corn Breeding," at the New England Corn show last week.

Prof. Fred Rasmussen, head of the dairy department, is the author of an extensive and valuable bulletin on "Cattle Breeders' Associations and the Dairying Industry of Denmark," now being published by the U. S. Dept. of Agri. On a recent trip to Denmark for the Bureau of Agriculture, Prof. Rasmussen gathered the necessary information through observations and by consulting the cattle experts and the official reports of that country. In speaking of the bulletin, which is probably the first complete treatise on the subject, A. D. Melvin, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture, says, "The information contained in the paper will undoubtedly be of value to our dairymen and to others who may be interested."

W. S. Dillon, state secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, explained the work of the association at chapel exercises last Wednesday.

Miss Caroline A. Black, A. M., Indiana University '09, is a new instructor in Botany, succeeding R. C. Rose, who has accepted a position with the Continental Rubber Co., of Mexico.

The 16th annual Dairy school of the college opens Jan. 3, and closes on March 10. With the new dairy building completed, and equipped, the school this year offers better opportunities for giving instruction in dairying than ever before in the history of the institution. Courses are offered both along the line of production handling and manufacturing of dairy products. Special attention will this year be given to a study of such subjects as the growing of crops for dairy cattle, the feeding and breeding of dairy cattle, and the study of factors influencing the quality of milk.

For full description of all courses, write Registrar, N. H. College, Durham, N. H., for handsome illustrated catalog.

sylvania, and was appointed from that state June 19, 1875. He reached the grade of colonel Feb. 28, 1906, and has had seventeen years' sea service. The approaching retirement of General Elliott serves to recall the feud among the officers at the corps headquarters here, which culminated on July 15, last, when the navy department sent letters censuring to a number of high officers of the corps, including General Elliott. Prior to the censure a court of inquiry held secret sessions for six months investigating the differences among the officers, which on several occasions almost reached the point of open rupture.

NAVY'S NEW ADMIRAL

Thomas B. Howard, Just Promoted Has Had a Creditable Record—Six Years Under Retiring List.

A commission has been sent to Capt. Thomas B. Howard, U. S. N., advancing him to the grade of rear admiral, owing to the retirement of Rear Admiral Conway H. Arnold on Monday. Capt. Howard was detached from duty as a member of the general board of the navy a month ago, and was assigned to command the third division of the Atlantic battleship fleet, with the Georgia as his flagship. He is now with the fleet in European waters.

Rear Admiral Howard is a native of Illinois, and was appointed to the naval academy at large from that state in 1873. He was born in 1854, so that he has still six years on the active list before he must be retired for age. He served on the gunboat Concord in the battle of Manila bay under Commander Dewey, and later in the war was on the Charleston in the engagement against the insurgents at Manila. A few years ago he was superintendent of the naval academy. One of the cruise of the Atlantic battleships from San Francisco to Norfolk, Va., he had command of the Ohio. He was a member of the general board of the navy from May, 1909, until last month. He was advanced to the rank of captain in 1908.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON

EXCELLENT VIEW OF THE MOON PASSING THROUGH EARTH'S SHADOW ON WEDNESDAY EVENING.

There was a total eclipse of the moon on Wednesday evening, and with a cloudless sky it was an excellent view of the phenomenon.

The brilliant full moon was well above the horizon when at 5.45 the first indications of the eclipse were noticeable on the lower edge of the moon. The shadow gradually spread until at 6.55 the moon was in total eclipse, and it remained in the shadow until 7.47 when the shadow began to leave and at 8.58 the shadow had entirely disappeared.

Speaking of terminal locations, is there anything the matter with the and all others for their hearty co-operation and help in making the fair on the Maine side?

According to the farmers of this section, the season now ending has been a record breaker for apple shipments from Rockingham county, and many car loads have left this station and at the different towns along the line of the Boston and Maine.

Many buyers have been at work hereabouts, and the price paid for them has been higher than last year, and also above the price of the year before.

Police from Congress Street to Report by Wire

The police department will soon put in a regulation call box at the corner of Daniel street and Market square which will be connected with the new quarters on Daniel street.

The box will be used mostly by the men covering the Congress street beat who report from the same and also answer the red light when turned on by the captain of the watch.

It will save considerable time by this arrangement after the department is moved to the new quarters.

The Washington's Repairs
The cruiser Washington, when she arrives here will undergo repairs which must be completed by Jan. 1 in order to allow her to participate in target practice on the southern drill grounds. She will then return here for more thorough work.

It's a Fast Job
The work which has been accomplished by the contractors on the old steam engineering pattern shop since the start was made, is said to be one of the fastest jobs ever carried out at the station.

Red-leading Her Sides
The North Carolina's sides have been touched up with red lead until they look like a patch work quilt. When she goes in drydock, she will receive a new coat of paint and resume her former appearance.

Two Moulders Called
Two green sand moulders were called for duty by the labor board today.

Now in Treasury Department

Dubuque's Repairs

Gunboats Nearer Home
The gunboats Petrel and Wheeling should be showing up at the port by the last of next week.

War Colors Good
The officers attached to the vessels of the Atlantic fleet have reported in terms of commendation on the "war color" of the paint used on the hulls of ships of war. The paint is what may be described as a slate color and proves to be efficacious as a contribution toward invisibility. It is reported that in a number of cases the bow wave of a distant ship was seen long before it was possible to identify the ship itself. During the recent battle practice it was noticed that the target was seen plainly some time before it was possible to see the ship towing the target. This appears to meet the conditions of the service, and there is every reason to regard the new paint so far as color goes, as solving the main problem in that detail.

Vessel Movements
Arrived—Louisiana, Kansas, New Hampshire and South Carolina at Cherbourg; Georgia, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Virginia at Brest; Wheeling and Petrel at Bermuda, Washington at Norfolk, De Long at Charleston, Montana at Porto Bello, Leonidas at Hampton Roads.

Sailed—Ajax from Newport News for Boston; Tacoma from Guantanamo for Bluefields.

The mail address of the Buffalo has been changed from Asiatic station via San Francisco to Pacific station via San Francisco. The Perkins has been ordered placed in commission at navy yard, Boston, Mass.

Navy Orders

Dry Dock company, in connection with the fitting out of the Seal and to command when commissioned.

TEAM MAY BE INDEPENDENT

High School Principal For Football Reorganization

At the meeting held at the High school Wednesday afternoon to discuss the feasibility of continuing or abolishing the sport of football, Principal J. Wilson Hobbs recommended that if a team is to be maintained it be reorganized as an independent team and with no school affiliations.

This suggestion will probably be followed, though but one more game is to be played this season. That is a date fixed with Newburyport for Thanksgiving day, which was not at first on the schedule.

Principal Hobbs maintains that the boys are in school to study, and not to indulge in sports unless it can be done without interference with lessons. The team's record this season is believed to have proved that it can not.
